Youth Academy: June 12-15, 2017

YOUTH ACADEMY PHILOSOPHY

The 2017 Youth Academy has a coaching philosophy consistent with the Zone 1 qualities recommended by both the United States Soccer Federation & the United States Youth Soccer coaching curriculum. Small-sided games (SSG) & a player-centered training approach will be the foundation of the development process.

The curriculum emphasizes technical development, along with a priority of igniting a passion for the game through fun & enjoyment, all while focusing on player development instead of match outcome. The measure of success in this academy will vary depending on the age of the participant, but will range from: improvement of ball skills; understanding the rules of the game; enjoyment; fair play; group coordination; basic combination play; principles of attack & defense; understanding the individuals role within the team; and discovery of a desire to keep playing the beautiful game!

COLLEGIATE PREP ACADEMY PHILOSOPHY

The WVU Soccer Academy is under the direct supervision of the Mountaineer men's soccer coaching staff. Our goal is to teach players using the same principles we train our nationally recognized NCAA Division I program. We have created a challenging & competitive environment for serious players & teams, focused on promoting an attacking, possession oriented style of play while training every player to develop pride in their personal defending. We prioritize technical proficiency & challenge players to think through the tactical implications of their decisions, by implementing purposeful training exercises designed to help players LEARN and ADAPT. Players are challenged to think outside the box, connecting their individual play within the framework of the team concept. We limit enrollment in our academy to ensure quality instruction & optimal interaction.

ENROLLMENT

Collegiate Prep Academy: A maximum of 100 participants (90 field players & 10 GK's) will be accepted;

All subsequent registrations will be placed on a wait list.
